

Safety/Regulatory Compliance

Effective communication is essential to worksite safety.

Issue: Inefficient group communication makes it difficult for organizations to quickly address work site emergencies, manage safety concerns and maintain proper security.

Application: Instant group communication provides emergency response teams, health services, security, management and employees the ability to quickly address emergency, safety and security incidents. Audio accessories can optimize communications and improve safety in noisy and hazardous environments.

Recommendation: Motorola Business Two-Way Radios are a critical part of your safety, security and operational management programs.

- Instant group communication enables immediate emergency response when seconds count.
- Quickly coordinate personnel to respond to emergency, safety and security incidents.
- Provide security personnel mobility while maintaining contact with their talk group.
- Maintain communication during extended periods of time where electrical power is unavailable with the use of disposable batteries.
- (VOX) capable accessories enhance safety through discrete hands-free operation.
